Experience of U.S. Troops in War With Filipinos.

LETTER FROM MAJ. CHAS. A. HOWARD

Progress of the Campaign as Noted by a Participant.

VALUABLE ACQUISITION

ceived an interesting communication from a friend, Maj. Charles A. Howard, 1st South Dakota Infantry, United States Volunteers, now on duty with his regiment in the Philippines. The letter is dated March Falls, where we organized the regiment and were mustered into the service of the United States May 19. We left for San Francisco May 29, arriving there June 2; left June 23 for the Philippines, arriving at Cavite August 23. As you may imagine, it has been a great experience for me, and if I live through it it will prove of great value to me, I think. If I go under it will, of course, make no difference. course, make no difference.

"I went to Sioux Falls as captain of the Aberdeen company, and as such was mustered into the service of the United States May 12, but was promoted to major and mustered in as such the 19th. Our colonel is A. S. Frost, an officer in the regular army; so we have had the best of instruction, and now have a regiment that is, I tion, and now have a regiment that is, I think, without a superior in the service to-day. We got here ten days too late for the fall of Manila, and, of course, it looked then as if we would not have any fighting; but we kept right on drilling and disciplining our men, just as if we were going to have active service, and it is fortunate. that we did, for it finally came.

Line of Outposts. "Our troops from the beginning maintained a line of outposts around the city, and the night of February 4, at about 10 o'clock, the insurgents opened fire on the men of our outposts and those of Nebraska, on our right. We were occupying with outpost guards (sixty men) about a mile of the lines, and they were about three miles from where our regiment was quartered in town.

"In ten minutes from the time the attack commenced our regiment was rapidly moving out to the support of the outposts. On arriving we found that our fellows had Colored DressGoods: been forced back a little, and we sent forward two companies to their relief, and so on regained the ground lost. Soon afterward the firing ceased. We waited an hour, but it was not resumed; so, leaving our lieutenant colonel in command of the two companies and the outpost guard, we took the rest of the men back to quarters. I was certain that it would requen before been forced back a little, and we sent fortook the rest of the men back to quarters. I was certain that it would reopen before morning, so did not go to bed, and, sure enough, at 3 a.m. they opened again, hotter than ever, having received reinforcements. In five minutes we were on our way out again. On arriving I was ordered to take another company forward to reinforce our firing line and to relieve the lieutenant colonel, who then came back to the regiment. From that time I was under fire, and a hot one it was. We had no protection except slight underbrush that prevented them seeing us very well. The enemy was behind intrenchments, and had the advantage of us. The air seemed full of bullets. I had two men killed and three wounded between that and morning, so you can see their marksmanship was not very good. Boys' Straw Hats. $ very good.

"At 9 o'clock the balance of our regiment if our men were on dress parade, and that fight was won. We then buried the enemy's dead, sending our own and all wounded into the city. We had our dinner at 3 o'clock and started forward to capture a stone wall and a large stone church that they accorded about a mile away. We took this with heavy loss to the enemy in about an hour and a half, with the loss on our side of one man killed and three men wounded. Then our whole army line was established, trenches thrown up, and here we have been since, walting until the troops on the way arrive so we can leave the city well guarded, when we are going out to put the fear of the Lord, and incidentally of Uncle Sam, into the heads of those heath-ens. On the 23d they made an attack in force on our part of the line at 7:30 a.m., putting up a good hot fight until 11:30, but without forcing us back an inch. We had two men killed and three wounded in this but little chance, of course, to personally know how it is in the interior. I've no idea when we shall go home, possibly in two months, perhaps not for a year. Whenever it is I shall be mighty glad to see 'old sod,' for that really is the only country."

tion of "W. J. M." in your issue of Wednesday, and am glad to note that at last some signs are evident that the public here come to our city, bringing with them the "wherewithal" for the purpose, and absorb all our street car lines, all our gas and electric lighting systems and all our water power? It seems, indeed, that the story of the "Old Man of the Sea" is not a fable after all; for if we have not aided in fastening a veritable monster of that sort upon our shoulders then all the signs are astray! We have been fed with promises (it is needless to repeat them), but what, so far, is the outcome (rather the first fruit) of this combination of capital and skill? Well, the first concrete act of the "combine" has been that of cutting down the wages of been that of cutting down the wages of their employes. It was low enough before, God knows! How men can live on less than $2 per day and keep their families alive, too, is a problem few of us have yet solved. We see other cities on the road to municipal ownership of street car lines. others compelling the reduction of far a from 5 cents to 3; others reducing the cost of gas and electric lighting; but is there any prospect, near or remote, that Wash-irgton will ever favor its citizens in that way? There might be—if it is not a'ready too late! The question for us to ask now and to demend an answer to is: What will be the outcome of all this? We know well enough, however, what the outcome will be, for the process is no new one. God in heaven never made a people more asinine than these Americans (and this is no invidious accusation), for we bind burdens upon our backs and bray that we are free; we fight for our liberties and ther turn them over to some "syndicate" to oppress us forever and ever—as in the present case. No one can blame the individual who had the genius to conceive the consolidation of all the street lines and the acquisition of 16, 1899. "at trenches of block house No. 4. near Manila," and is as follows:

"We left home May 2, 1898, for Sioux and skill. But while all this will tend to his and his companions' emolument, as in-dividuals, why, in the name of freedom, for which our forefathers (some of them) fought; why, in the name of liberty, which we so much admire in the abstract, should we slave and contribute of our hard-earned savings for their enrichment? The king of France once sent word to the sovereigns of Spain and Portugal that he would like to and took them away from them! And we may as well remind all such as claim ex-clusive privileges in what the Almighty very evidently intended should be for the benefit of all the people, and not for the aggrandizement of any one class, that sconer or later a demand will be made for them to show their title deeds! Would it not be far better for us to call a halt be-fore the title deeds are passed? In whom are these rights vested? In the people. are these rights vested? In the people What are the people doing with them' Giving them away! When the combine gets all it wants and the people "ki-k," what are they going to do about it? That is the question. Would it not be better to "kick" now and to kick hard? May 18, 1839. AN ONLOOKER. POSTMASTER KILLS HIMSELF.

Commits Suicide.

Emery F. Johnson, a resident of Langley, Va., and postmaster of the village, committed suicide yesterday afternoon by shooting, | Crescent shippard and placed on waiting death resulting almost instantly. The suicide was a premeditated one, it is said, the man having been despondent for several days past, though none of his friends beheved that self-destruction was contemplated.

The suicide occurred shortly after noon. Johnson secured a gun and shot at himself, but aim d wrong, and the bullet sped harm-lessly past. The act was witnessed by Mr. Hummer, a resident of the locality, and he attempted to wrest the gan from the grasp of Johnson. The latter, after struggling for some time for the possession of the weapon, finally stated that the shooting was accidental, that he did not intend to kill himself. Thinking that the statement was true, Mr. Hummer released his hold on the man, and let him go. As soon as he was free Johnson entered a

As soon as he was free Johnson entered a room in his home, pointed the gun at himself and pulled the trigger. The whole front of his face was almost blown away by the discharge. The report of the discharge attracted attention, and the body was discovered almost immediately after the shooting. Human aid was of no avail. Mr. Johnson was a native of Langley, a small village about three miles from the Virginia end of the Chain bridge, but had last lived there only for two or three last lived there only for two or three months, accepting the position of postmas-ter. He was married, and leaves a wife and family. For some time he had lived in Georgetown, and for a time resided on the Conduit road. He conducted a dairy business, and was known to a good many peo-ple in the section named. At Langley he kept a small general store in which the post office was located.

Women who suffer should write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. He will send them the best professional advice that can be had anywhere in America and entirely without charge. Neither the "Golden Medical Discovery" nor the "Favorite Prescription" contains any alcohol to in-ebriate or create a morbid craving for stimulants.

Every woman should own a copy of his splendid book "The Common Sense Medical Adviser." It is the grandest medical book for popular reading ever written. It contains a fund of knowledge of precious value to women. It has over a thousand-pages elaborately illustrated with engravings and colored plates. The first great edition of more than half-a-million copies was sold at $1.50 each. The profit from this induced Dr. Pierce to carry out his cherished intention of issuing a free edition one copy of which in paper-covers will be sent for the bare cost of mailing, at one-cent stamps, or a heavier cloth bound copy for 31 stamps.

Carroll Institute Dramatic Club. Reports from the box office at the Lafayette Square Theater show that the sale of seats for the performance of "Alabama," to be given tomorrow night by the members of the Carroll Institute Dramatic Club, has been the liveliest in the history of that organization. The orchestra has been almost entirely disposed of, and few seats remain in other portions of the house. That the performance will be one of the best that has ever been given by amateurs goes without saying, and the popular in-terest that has been manifested in the event is great. The production is being

ENTERTAINS ITS FRIENDS. Anniversary Celebration by Myron M.

Parker Lodge, F. A. A. M. Myron M. Parker Lodge, No. 27, F. A. A. M., celebrated the eighth anniversary of its institution last evening by a musical and literary entertainment in the main half of Northeast Temple. A large and enthusiastic audience, composed of the members of the lodge, their families and friends, was present. Standing room was at a premium, and many were unable to gain admission. A delightful program was rendered, consisting of several numbers by an orchestra under the leadership of B. J. Wrightsman; an address of welcome by Joseph M. Mc-Coy, worshipful master of the lodge; piano duet, by Misses Lillie and Eldridge Burns; recitations, by Mrs. B. L. Nevins, Mrs. D. J. Roberts and Mr. H. W. Weber; instrumental selections on banjos, by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stutsman and Mr. S. J. Gompers; contralto solo, by Mrs. D. Olin Leech; cornet solo, by Dr. P. L. Gunckel; monologue, by Charles F. Purdy: Master Irwin Kirkwood, and bass Solo, by Ralph W. Bowen.

Game Called "Populating."

Frederick Goodall and William Washingion, two small colored boys, were today in the Police Court, charged with fighting. The evidence showed that they had been playing with pennies a game called "populating," and got to quarreling. The court said the game was a new one to him, and questioned the witnesses closely. But little light was thrown on the subject until Bailiff Kendig said it was a play similar to one called "canteen," which was in vogue during the civil war. After further explanations by Mr. Kendig, the court said the game was one that must be broken up. Goodali's personal bonds were taken by order of Judge Kimball, and Washington was fined $5. PERMITS TO DISPLAY GOODS.

of the District, has received nearly a hundred applications from owners or occupants of stores upon streets which have not been declared to be business streets by the Commissioners to display goods outside of the store. To take up each case individually, Capt. Beach found, would require a large increase in the clerical force of his office, and would give great trouble to the police, as different permits might be granted different parties. Believing that much better results can be secured by making a general regulation, applicable, as far as possible, to all cases, he therefore recommended that an order issue to the following "That the owners or occupants of stores streets may, during the time that the build ing is open for business use the space out-side of their store to the distance of four feet from the building line for the display of goods or articles directly connected with the business transacted within the store: Provided, That in case of stores selling meat no careasses shall be placed outside of the building. That this permit be re-vocable in the case of any individual violating its provisions, and not to give any authority for permanent occupation of the pace in question."

This, he believes, will give the parties the This, he believes, will give the parties the same privileges which they have heretofore enjoyed under the old corporation law. This recommendation of Capt. Beach, it is stated, will be approved by his associates.

Trust Control of Semi-Public Franchises. To the Editor of The Evening Star: I have read with interest the communica-

Is it possible, in the first place, that there is a "public" here capable of being wrought to a proper pitch of righteous indignation over the prospective losses of franchise and privileges? In the second place, does it take in the scope of the recent operations in this city, whereby the citizens are being deprived of every species of public utility that it is possible for a trust company to absorb? Has it noted the steps by which this process has gradually wrought the ex-tinction of our every remaining right in streets and thoroughfarcs, in our gas and electric lighting, and finally in that last glorious possession, the Great Falls? We might well ask ourselves: "Are we fools?" And we may as well answer, now as ever, "It looks that way!"
